Elmer Owens was an El Verano passenger to Santa Rosa Sunday evening.

Leo Baines of the El Verano Garage transacted business in the bay city last Saturday.

W. S. Bishop went to Santa Rosa Monday as a witness in the Lewis-O'Brien water law suit.

Joseph Kearney has returned to San Francisco after spending a few weeks with relatives.

John McClellan, a well known business man of San Francisco, is spending a few weeks here.

Tom Freeman, a well known capitalist from San Francisco, is spending the week in our town.

Carlos Emparan came up from Suisun last Saturday evening to attend the entertainment in Sonoma.

Chas. Danch is in San Francisco this week and Elmer Owens is acting booze clerk during his absence.

Mr. F. Redmond, formerly a resident of this place, is a guest at the Joe Dowdall residence above town.

Miss Stella McGill has returned home from Berkeley after spending several weeks in that place with relatives.

Chas. Cowan and Chas. Childs, two rising young society chaps, attended the entertainment at Sonoma Saturday evening.

A large number of summer guests are still at this place, and a large number of summer fairies too. Some of our boys can be seen any evening with a rubber-tired rig accompanied by one of our beautiful visitors.

Sam Strauss, who has spent the last three months here as pianist at one of our resorts, will leave for San Francisco the first of the week where he will play in one of the leading orchestras in that city.

K. Gabriel, the well-known proprietor of the St. Francis Grill, has left town and gone to San Francisco to look for a suitable place to locate and get ready for the 1915 Fair. Mr. Gabriel conducted a first-class restaurant and is missed very much by our people.

A large crowd from Petaluma, Vallejo, Napa and Santa Rosa attended the barbecue at Harry Lubbock's new place, "The Riverside," last Sunday. Automobiles, buses and wagons brought one of the biggest crowds ever assembled at El Verano to partake of the feast. The Sonoma brass band furnished the music and all voted Harry a good fellow and promised to come again. It was one big day at "The Riverside."

The San Francisco baseball team known as the Clark Ryes won the game at the local diamond last Sunday. It was one of the best games played this season and the El Verano boys lost on errors. The score was 2 to 3 and we advise them to quit drinking mineral water and drink something stronger as it might wake them up a little. Otherwise the game was a good one and a return game will be played in the near future.

SPRECKELS CLUB HOUSE BURGLARIZED

Deputy Sheriff Ryan Makes Midnight Capture of Three Culprits With the Goods on Them.

Early last Saturday night the club house on Rudolph Spreckels hunting preserves near Merazzo was broken into and looted during the temporary absence of Mrs. Soderberg, who has charge of the place during the close season for ducks. Trunks were forced open and every room in the house was ransacked by the thieves in their search for booty, who after securing their plunder made their getaway under cover of darkness.

Upon Mrs. Soderberg's return to the club house near the midnight hour and discovering that the premises had been burglarized, the plucky woman hitched up a team and drove to this city and notified Deputy Sheriff Ryan. Although it was long past the midnight hour the officer secured the services of Jack Gottenberg of the Sonoma garage and made a hasty trip to the club house by automobile.

While on his way to the scene of the robbery, officer Ryan observed a camp-fire alongside of the Southern Pacific railroad track a mile or two from the club house and surmised that the culprits had struck camp after committing the robbery.

After looking over the looted premises and securing a description of some of the missing articles, the officer made a sneak on the camp alongside the railroad track and with his sawed-off double-barrelled shotgun compelled three young men who were huddled around the fire to throw up their hands and surrender. This they did with alacrity, and the trio were discovered to be the culprits, as all the plunder taken from the club house was found in their camp.

The three offenders are between 17 and 18 years of age and hail from San Francisco. One of them is a mulatto. The officer brought his prisoners into town and locked them up in the city jail and then notified the District Attorney's office of the arrest.

The offenders were taken to Santa Rosa by officer Ryan on Monday and locked up in the county jail on a charge of burglary.

Damage Suit to Come to Trial

The $25,000 damage suit of G. Pollini against C. T. Ryland of the Sonoma Valley Company will soon come to trial in the Superior Court of Sonoma county. The suit is for damages for the death of Mrs. Pollini who was electrocuted by a live wire.

The outcome of the case which will now come to trial will be awaited with considerable interest.

THE BIG STATE FAIR

The State Fair advertisement appears in this issue of the INDEX-TRIBUNE. Our readers will notice it presents an extensive and attractive program. It is asserted, and no doubt justly, that the general industrial features and the livestock department will be by far the best ever assembled in this State.

This is in the line of a Fair as it ought to be. The directors, however, seem not to be contented with having worked out the big Fair proper, but are putting on one of the most attractive and spectacular programs of free attractions that has ever been seen on a like occasion in California. They are not only duplicating, with some improvements, the fireworks, flying machines and Wild West features that drew such large crowds last year, but they have military drills, chorus singers and nightly horse shows in the big amphitheater especially prepared for the purpose. It does certainly seem that the visitor to the Fair this year will get his money's worth, as we are assured there will be something doing every minute and something for everybody.

We are glad to see the management waking up to the importance of properly exploiting this big State institution and we shall see the good work go on until the benefits of the State Agricultural Society and its annual Fair are felt in every part of California, and the institution becomes representative of all the State and sections and industries thereof.

The State Fair grounds have taken on the appearance of considerable activity the past week. The three concrete buildings which will be used for dairy and livestock exhibits, are rapidly nearing completion. The side concrete frames for the milking barn and refrigerator buildings have been put in place and within the next week or so will be plastered with concrete.

One disagreeable feature of the State Fair grounds last year was the constant arising of dust from the road to the discomfort of the Fair visitors, this being remedied by a thick layer of crushed granite rock upon the roads and walks and then rolled to a compact and durable surface. Laying of lawns in suitable sections of the grounds is another matter which has been given serious consideration in order to make the grounds as attractive as possible.

A large enclosed concrete sewer to drain the grounds and the livestock buildings has been constructed to do away with the open ditch in use heretofore, which made a section of the grounds unsightly.

The poultry exhibit building which was adjacent to the track and interfered with prospective plans for extension to the grandstand, had to be moved westward of its former location and placed next to Machinery Hall.

The foundation work for the new grandstand has been finished and workmen have started erecting the superstructure which will be pushed to completion. An innovation which will appeal to women very strongly, will be the construction of retiring rooms for women and children.

Interred in Mountain Cemetery.

Mrs. Estelle Robinson, who died in Napa one day last week, was interred in Mountain cemetery in this city Monday. The funeral was a quiet one, and only the relatives and a few immediate friends being present at the obsequies of the deceased.

Mrs. Robinson was 41 years of age and spent her girlhood days in this valley.

Dr. L. B. Lawson, the expert specialist in fitting glasses, of the Lawson-Rinner Optical Co., Santa Rosa, will be at the Union Hotel on Thursday, August 17th.

Greenfield's for the finest fish, fruit and vegetables. Give him a trial.

THE LEWIS-O'BRIEN WATER-RIGHT SUIT.

Judge Seawell Grants an Order Restraining Defendants From Wasting Water Flowing into Plaintiff's Reservoir.

On Monday last Judge Emmet Seawell granted two temporary restraining orders in two of the three suits brought last week by L. L. Lewis, President of the Sonoma Valley Water, Light and Power Company, against Nellie and Mary O'Brien and Kate Carriger, which prevents the latter from diverting and wasting the waters of Lennox and Fowler creeks, pending the hearing of the suits.

These suits are the outcome of a riparian rights controversy between the parties, whose thousand-acre ranches adjoin each other at the base of the Sonoma mountains in the western portion of the valley. The suits bid fair to be bitterly contested as both plaintiff and defendants are people who will stick up for what they conceive to be their rights to the very last.

James M. Oliver, the well known attorney of San Francisco, is representing Mr. Lewis and his company, while J. T. Campbell of Santa Rosa is the attorney for the O'Brien girls.

Prominent Woman in Town.

Miss Bertha Kumli, public library organizer for the State Library, Sacramento, was in town last Friday and Saturday. During her brief sojourn here, Miss Kumli attended an adjourned meeting of the City Trustees held for the purpose of discussing the proposed Carnegie library for Sonoma and took a lively interest in the proceedings. The lady is well known in this county, having lived in Sonoma and Santa Rosa for number of years.

Passing of an Old Resident.

Antonio Caminata, for many years a resident of this city, died at his home here on Friday afternoon of last week at the age of 76 years.

The deceased leaves a widow and a large family of grown children. He was born in Italy and came to this country when a young man and soon after became a citizen of his adopted country.

The funeral took place from St. Francis church Monday and was largely attended. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

Ex-Supervisor Ike K. Button is Sued For Divorce.

Mrs. Frances Button of Occidental, wife of ex-Supervisor I. K. Button, has commenced divorce proceedings against her spouse in the Superior Court of this county. The parties to the suit have not been living very happily together the past few years and the proceedings were no surprise to the friends of the family, who had been looking for this very thing to happen for a long time. The woman lawyer of Santa Rosa, Mrs. Fannie McG. Martin, is the attorney for Mrs. Button.

The Catholic Church entertainment in Union Hall last Saturday evening was a great success both financially and socially. The large hall was crowded to the doors with an appreciative audience. The entertainment was a most enjoyable one and a great treat was missed by those who were so unfortunate as not to be present. A neat sum of money was realized by the Catholic ladies for St. Francis church.

George Perazzo went to San Francisco Sunday morning.

Mrs. Elizabeth Marti, who is now living in Petaluma was in town Monday.

Misses Gina Hess and Cecil Roberts of Santa Rosa spent Sunday afternoon in Sonoma.

Schellville Grammar School reopened for the fall term on July 31, with Miss Shirley Saunders as teacher.

The ice cream social given for the benefit of Trinity Church at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Haven on Friday of last week, was well attended by friends and members of the church. A neat sum was realized by the ladies who had the affair in hand.

The Mens' League of Sonoma has arranged with District Attorney Clarence F. Lea to address the citizens of Sonoma and vicinity at the Methodist church tomorrow (Sunday) evening. The subject will be "The Administration of the Criminal Law." The theme, which will be handled by one of the most distinguished public prosecutors of the State, is of vital importance to every law-abiding citizen and no one should miss the opportunity of listening to Mr. Lea, than whom no one is better qualified to handle the subject chosen for him by the League. The general public is invited to be present.

Good Roads That Are Permanent.

Under the above caption the Scientific American in its last week's issue remarks that chief among the qualities of a good road is durability, and durability can only be assured by first-class work in construction and by ceaseless vigilance in maintaining the road in perfect condition.

It goes without saying that the highways of America, considered as a whole, are not to be compared with those of the older European countries. After a motor car tour through Europe, the returning American becomes painfully aware of the fact that in this important matter, his country, even if we allow for its comparative youthfulness, is many decades behind that stage of development to which its wealth and enterprise should have carried it long ago. Although we say this with appreciation of the fact that some of our States, and notably New Jersey and Massachusetts, have done effective work in building up as system of highways, the fact remains that, taken as a whole, the United States has not done much more in this matter of good roads than make a beginning—the work has yet to be done.

It is not that we are parsimonious in the matter of appropriations. Had the money which has been voted by legislatures and county boards, and the enormous amount of work which has been done under the assessment method, been wisely expended in the first place, and followed up by intelligent methods of maintenance and repair—in other words, if we had built our roads and cared for them as they build and maintain them in Europe, we do not hesitate to say that for the money and energy expended, our roads would have been in at least 100 per cent better condition than they are today.

The fundamental requirements of a good road are an ample foundation and good drainage. Without these, the most carefully levelled and smoothly rolled top surface is nothing more than a delusion and a snare. Furthermore, a road that has been built with deep foundations, good drainage, and an ample depth of suitable top dressing—unless it be watched and tended with the utmost solicitous attention—will go to pieces only a little less rapidly than the cheap product of the scraper and horse roller.

We have longed believed that in those districts where scarcity of travel and financial inability to provide the necessary funds prohibit the construction of a first-class macadam road, it will be better to invest the time and money in constructing short sections of durable road, leaving the traffic to fight it out with "chuck holes," deep ruts and mud over the balance of the highway during the winter months. The endurance of a few years of discomfort would be repaid by the ultimate possession of a permanent first-class highway. Moreover, the use of oil or some other of the many excellent "binders" that are now available would make it possible to maintain the unimproved roadway in as good, if not better, condition than that of the old scraper-and-roller highway, which invariably went to pieces after the first two or three frosts and rains of the winter.

In districts where financial conditions and the amount of traffic has warranted the construction of expensive roads, millions of dollars have been thrown away because of the absolutely absurd system of maintenance (if it can be called such) which has been followed. There is no method of construction upon which eternal vigilance is so necessary as on that of the modern macadam highway. This has long been recognized in Europe, where the roadways are divided into comparatively short sections, each of which is controlled by a section gang, provided with a supply of broken rock, gravel, sand and other road mending material, conveniently distributed in piles along the roadway. Each member of the gang has his wheelbarrow, pick and shovel, and as soon as the slightest indication of breakdown, such as a rut or a hollow is detected, repairs are made before the damage can proceed any further. A century of experience has proved that this is the only way in which a road can be maintained always in absolutely first-class condition; never was the truth of the old adage "a stitch in time saves nine" more strikingly true than in this matter of the up-keep of public thoroughfares.

The Hay Market.

The condition of the hay market for the week ending August 1st is thus summarized by Somers & Co. in their weekly report:

Receipts of hay in the San Francisco market continue to be very heavy, a total of 4614 tons arriving during the past week in comparison with 4655 tons the week previous. On Monday especially there was a severe congestion and although there was no break in the market, yet there was a naturally weak feeling on account of so much hay being offered. The larger consumers are just commencing to lay away their supply of hay at this time of the year and this fact naturally helped in the disposition of the bulk of hay which has been brought to market.

Although there has been considerable hay changing hands in the country during the week, yet activity in buying has not been nearly as great as it was a week ago. Prices remain firm in all districts tributary to the San Francisco market but as yet there has not been the change in prices on the San Francisco market which was expected and which was necessary in order to have the dealers who have bought the hay in the country for shipment, to realize any margin of profit.

Alfalfa is still inactive and the dairymen are giving more attention to clover hay this year than they have for many years past. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that the price of clover hay is so much lower than the price at which alfalfa hay is being held. Usually at this time of the year large quantities of alfalfa are being brought in from the river district, but this year is an exception and unless it can be bought at lower figures in the near future there will probably be a congestion later on account of the efforts of the farmers to move their crops before the Fall rains.

Notice to Property Owners.

Notice is hereby given that all property owners on the line of the sewer, now building, will be required to purchase 4-inch sewer pipe to connect with the main sewer in the center of the street to the sidewalk curbing in front of their premises. The contractors for the construction work may excavate for the property owner and lay his pipe if he so desires. The Board would suggest that this be done as it will save the property-owner money to have the connection made now, although it is not compulsory at this time. For further particulars see Mr. F. THE COUNTY FREE LIBRARY PROJECT

Miss Bertha Kumli, Public Library Organizer, Sets Forth Some of Its Advantages

A county free library is a free library which is supported by the county and which gives service to every resident of the county. The county unit has been decided upon as the logical one in California for the following reasons:

1. California is the second largest state in the Union and is much too large to be served adequately or economically through any state system of traveling libraries.

2. Municipal libraries cannot serve the large percentage of population living in colonies and in remote parts of the county.

3. Many municipalities have no library and are glad to combine into a larger unit which by co-operation means much more economical, much better and much more effective library service.

4. Small municipal libraries are glad to have near them and in close touch with them a large library which supplements their own collection and which in no way interferes with the local administration.

5. The county is a large enough unit to give more adequate support to the library with only a very small tax levy.

6. The county free library can co-operate with the schools.

The county free library is as stated above, a library for all the people of the county. It is perfectly simple in its method of operation, following closely that of a large city with branches in different sections of the town. The only difference is that a city has the municipality for its boundary while the county free library has the county for its boundary. In a county free library the headquarters are established at the county seat, and in charge of a county librarian who has training and experience in library work. The librarian gets acquainted with the people, ascertains the book-needs of the general public, the schools, clubs, etc., and makes up collections of books to be placed at each branch with especial reference to the needs of that particular locality, the largest collection being placed where the demand is greatest. These collections are changed in part or entire, as the community no longer uses them. In addition, if a book is desired which is not in the local collection, it is sent from the county central free library; or if not found there, it is supplied from the state library, all shipments being free to the borrower. In this way, as soon as a person is in a county free library system, he is practically sure of complete library service—of receiving any book which he needs and of receiving it free of any charges, either for transportation or service.

In very small communities the books are usually placed in a store, postoffice, or anywhere convenient to the public. In communities large enough to need it, reading rooms are maintained, in charge of a custodian who is paid a small stipend by the county, and who keeps the room open whatever hours it will be used. The reading rooms are being welcomed as a strong influence for good in the small communities. Supplied with books, magazines and newspapers they offer a most acceptable social center.

Already twelve counties are carrying on county work, and many more are making preparations. With a central office and storehouse at the county seat, and with branches in various parts of the county, the people even in the remotest part of the county are receiving a library service otherwise impossible except under such a co-operative plan. The counties now carrying on the work are Alameda, Del Norte, Fresno, Madera, Merced, Modoc, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Santa Barbara, Tulare and Yolo.

Old Gentleman Meets With Accident.

The aged father of R. H. Piatt, teacher in the commercial department of our High School met with a painful accident last Tuesday. Enfeebled by age the old gentleman slipped and fell, cutting two deep gashes over and below the left eye. The cuts were sewed up by Dr. Leix and the patient, although 90 years of age, will be none the worse for the mishap in a few days.

EASY JIM.
Vineburg, Aug. 3, 1911.

MRS. H. E. BOYES SERIOUSLY BURNED.

Explosion of a Distillate Stove Burner the Cause of the Accident.

Mrs. Boyes, wife of Capt. H. E. Boyes, the original owner and discoverer of Boyes Springs, came near meeting with a fatal accident last Sunday.

It appears that the Boyes had recently installed a distillate burner in their kitchen stove and on Sunday morning just before the noon hour Mrs. Boyes was using it for the first time in preparing luncheon and while standing over the stove the attachment suddenly exploded.

In an instant Mrs. Boyes was enveloped in flames from the burning distillate and was dreadfully scared about the face, hands and arms.

Dr. Leix was hastily summoned by phone to attend to Mrs. Boyes' injuries which were both painful and dangerous.

At latest accounts his patient was improving, although it will take some time for the burns to heal as they are both deep and many.

True Facts of The Case

In several papers in the county are notices of suits at law brought against me and my sisters by the Sonoma Valley Water, Light and Power Company. In those suits are various allegations that will be completely disproved in due time. The facts are that L. L. Lewis, manager, etc., of said company, built two separate dams on his own land to divert the water from Carriger creek and sell it to the people of Sonoma Valley. Unfortunately for him his dams were built like his reservoir, on a sandy foundation, and he had to hunt another locality, more suitable for a dam, and unknown to me, or my sisters, he went on my land, where it joins his, and constructed a dam half on our land and half on his. Then in order to get the water from Lennox creek he laid a pipe and constructed a dam entirely on our land. The dam in Carriger creek, half on our land, remains today undisturbed as he put it. The pipes I suppose were washed out by the winter rains as I found them scattered over my premises and I had them picked up and properly placed over on Lewis land, where I thought they belonged. I don't know what became of the dam, or any contrivance he may have had in Lennox creek, as I have never seen it.

As to the allegations that we have diverted the water of Lennox creek: I know nothing about what the tenant on the place does with it but I believe he has a small patch of kale, to feed rabbits, that he occasionally waters to keep it green, but I have never heard of his selling or wasting the water, and don't see why he should, as there is precious little water in Lennox creek, any way. At my own house I only use water from a spring just above it for domestic purposes and irrigating plants, but I don't think either I or the tenant on this 1000-acre tract, where all the water of Lennox creek rises, use as much water as some of Mr. Lewis' customers he is so anxious to supply.

It looks as if Mr. Lewis is so chagrined and mortified over his dismal failure with his water works that he is seeking some one on whom to lay the blame and has, as a last resort, selected us.

OF BARLEY AND HOPS

Notable Feature of the American Exposition of Brewing Machinery, Materials and Products --- Eminent Experts on the Committee of Awards.

Cleaning Barley For Seed.
One of the principal difficulties that have obtained in the growing of barley as well as other crops is that sufficient attention has not been paid to the seed, not only in the matter of fanning out all dead and degenerate berries, so as to seed only good and live grain and produce a good crop, but also because there has been a lack of uniformity as to variety or strain. This is perhaps of more than ordinary importance in the case of barley and is one of the matters that will engage the attention of the barley and hop exhibition at Chicago in October, 1911. The barley which is used for malting purposes is put through an artificial process of sprouting in mass, in which necessarily all grains are treated alike. It stands to reason, however, that where plump and thin grains, mellow and flinty ones, all steeped and sprouted under like conditions they will necessarily grow differently and cannot yield a uniform malt. This causes serious troubles to the consumer when he works up the malt in the further processes of manufacture and makes it difficult for him to finish off a uniform product. It stands to reason that where the different kinds of grains are all seeded in the same soil in like manner at the same season and grow under the same weather conditions the berries of different characters cannot possibly develop alike. The result will be an uneven stand, differences in the time of maturing, different action in the stack, etc.

Pedigree Grain.
Different strains of barley will grow differently on different soils and in different climates.
In order to produce the best crops which will also be the most abundant it is therefore necessary to use pure strains, or, as the scientists call them, "pedigree" grain, where all the berries are of the same variety or strain and will behave alike under similar conditions. It is also necessary to find by experiment what particular strain is best suited to certain soils and climates.
You are hereby directed to appear, and answer the complaint in an action entitled as above, brought against you in the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of Sonoma, within ten days after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; or within thirty days, if served elsewhere. And you are hereby notified that unless you appear and answer as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

mates and also what method of planting and cultivation is best adapted to the varieties and types.
